

Overview of Electronic Submission of Administrative Supplements

eRA Communications

Benefits of Electronic Type 3 Submission

- Meet NIH and Federal-wide goals for increasing electronic grant processes.
- Simplify application process to reduce burden on grantees.
- Enable NIH to handle increasing number of administrative supplement requests
- Improve data collected for programs promoting diversity and reentry in the biomedical workforce

Implementation Notes

Grantees are not required to use eSubmission options during pilot. Current paper process and existing IC submission systems remain available.

- To allow grantees the submission option during pilot ICs must allow submissions to come in electronically. Only applies to requests submitted in accordance with IC requirements.
- ICs may refuse requests submitted outside their deadlines, outside stated areas of interest, or lacking information required by IC.

Make sure to check with the IC before submitting regardless of mechanism to ensure you have the most recent and up-to-date information with regards to an Administrative Supplement Request.

Implementation Notes

Grantees have two options for submitting administrative supplement requests:

1. Through Grants.gov, allows users to leverage the same process used for competing grant application submissions – an especially nice feature for system-to-system users.
2. Through eRA Commons, a streamlined process where much of the application is pre-populated with information from the parent grant data and you are guided step by step through the rest of the application.

Streamlined System for “Simple Supplements” via Commons

- Available for use in all programs currently accepting electronic submissions.
- Optimized for the majority of administrative supplements requesting only small amounts of money for simple additions, such as:
  - Adding personnel, particularly candidates for the diversity and re-entry programs.
  - Replacing or upgrading equipment
  - Purchasing additional supplies

Streamlined System for “Simple Supplements” via Commons

- PD/PIs, ASSTs or SOs will access an existing grant on the Commons and see a link to the Supplement Request module
- Module will include web-based system for data entry.
- PD/PI and ASST can fill out but only SO can submit
- NIH will route the application directly to the awarding IC (and notify the proper NIH staff) who will consider the request.

Applicant View: Streamlined Supp Requests via Commons

- PI, Delegate, or SO accesses parent award in Commons and clicks on “Admin Supp” to see list of grants eligible for supplements.
